

MEET THE PHOTOGRAPHER

Hello! My name is Brice Bauer and I am a photographer out of Indianapolis. I believe in finding the moments and the images that make a person proud of themselves. The type of picture that stays as your profile photo because you just ... like it. Images that convey drama, joy, love, and happiness. Moments that you can share with your friends and family.

I started taking pictures when I first moved away from home. I found myself wanting to capture the scenery around me, and freeze moments so that I could review and relive them in the coming years. The process of perfectly capturing the sunset or the flower on the beach eventually led me to portraits and capturing people in those tiny, important moments in our lives.

My goal is not to just give you pictures of yourself. My goal is to provide you with photographs that you can be proud to display and view on a daily basis.
